Explore the World with Knowledgeable Cultural Specialists
Ubiquity International Offers Cultural Tours to Italy, Greece, Spain & Ireland

Piedmont, CA – February 7, 2006 – Today’s modern savvy traveler demands more than just a great vacation. These globetrotting enthusiasts seek knowledge, adventure and the opportunity to fully experience a destination. Ubiquity International, the premier provider of unique cultural, historical and educational travel experiences throughout the world, is responding to this demand by offering travelers an opportunity to embrace the world like never before.

“Travel that engages the mind is a truly enriching experience – that’s what many people are looking for, whether it’s their first or fifth trip abroad,” said Thomas Talboy, 42, who founded Ubiquity International in 2004. “Our tours are led by Cultural Specialists who share their knowledge about the language, art, history and culture of the destination, offering travelers a unique perspective into the sites and cities visited.”

Rome was the first destination offered by Ubiquity International. It was a success applauded by everyone who participated. Soon after, Talboy created specialized itineraries to Florence, Naples, Pompeii, Paris, Athens and the Greek Isles. This year, he is adding tours to Peru, Spain, Ireland and Northern Greece.

With a marathon resume that reads like a combination travel guide and a comprehensive academic achievement award, Talboy has the credentials to ignite travelers’ curiosity about everything from ancient Greece and Rome to the sites described in the Da Vinci Code. He earned a PhD in Classics and two master’s degrees, one in Greek Drama and one in Ancient History, and has been an educator for nearly 20 years. Talboy is also a lawyer. He previously attended Mount Angel Seminary in Oregon and served as a Jesuit novice in Washington and Oregon.

“His lifelong love of learning and his fascination with travel and exploration provide an ideal resource for travelers interested in the distinctive details of each site,” said Jeffery Faris, who handles business development for Ubiquity International. “Tom particularly enjoys Rome and Athens.”

Ubiquity International attracts individuals and families interested in understanding the unique culture and history of the world, by providing explorations of archaeological sites and ruins and personalized visits to museums and historical sites. Not an academic or tedious guided tour, Talboy goes to great lengths to personalize each adventure to meet the specific needs and interests of the group. Itineraries include free time for exploration and shopping, visits to the beach, boat rides and endless opportunities to experience the flavorful local cuisine.

Talboy is a certified Destination Specialist in both Italy and European Culture & Heritage, and is an active member of the American Society of Travel Agents.
